Submission Guidelines:

Research papers written for Writing 301, 302, or 303 may be submitted to The York Scholar up to the end of the semester after you took the course. (That is, if you took the course in Fall 2011, you have until the end of Spring 2012 to submit your paper. Papers written in the Summer session should be submitted by the end of the following Fall semester; papers written over the Winter session should be submitted in the following Spring). However, it is best to submit your paper directly to the Writing Program at the conclusion of the semester in which you take the course.

Electronic Submission: Complete an electronic version of this form and send it to rciceron@york.cuny.edu. Be sure to attach an electronic version of your complete paper, including references or works cited list.

In Person Submission: Complete this form and attach a hard copy of your paper to it. At some point, we will request an emailed electronic version of your paper.

Be sure to keep a copy of this form and both a print and electronic copy of your paper.

Submission of a paper for possible publication in The York Scholar does not guarantee publication in the journal.

Permission Statement:

I hereby submit my research paper, _____ (insert title), for consideration for publication in The York Scholar. I grant permission to the College-Wide Writing Program to reproduce my paper for the journal, and understand that if my paper is chosen my name will be published as the author of the paper.
